Take action to stop O'Farrell's laws, visit: http://www.betterstate.org.au/stop_ofarrells_law/

Yesterday, the NSW Government introduced new industrial laws that remove rights that teachers, nurses, police and public service workers have enjoyed for over 100 years.

It's a fundamental right of all workers to have a day in court to determine their wages or conditions at work, but Premier O'Farrell wants to take all this away.

There's still a chance to stop this happening. Members of Parliament who hold the balance of power can join with the opposition in defeating this legislation.

Send them a message by visiting: http://www.betterstate.org.au/stop_ofarrells_law/

Why in a period of record prosperity are we punishing the people that keep our streets safe, educate our kids and look after our community?

This won't just affect public sector workers. It will affect everyone. You can't cut jobs, wages and conditions without cutting services.

Barry O'Farrell was not elected with a mandate to punish public sector workers – or to cut the services they deliver.

We need to spread the word.

Take action by visiting: http://www.betterstate.org.au/stop_ofarrells_law/ and send a message to those Members of Parliament with the balance of power – protect public sector workers, protect public services.

We're hoping to get 10,000 people to take action - forward this email to as many of your colleagues and friends as possible.

Yours Faithfully
